

Business for Breakfast

A benefit for Youth Entrepreneurs

What business person wouldn't want a side of entrepreneurial insight with their cereal and coffee these days?

Youth Entrepreneurs and presenting sponsor Capital City Bank will serve up just that, as entrepreneur Frank Sabatini speaks at the 2011 Business for Breakfast. Join us to discover the inside story of this successful entrepreneur.

Youth Entrepreneurs provides high school youth with business and entrepreneurial education and experiences that will help them prosper and become contributing members of society.

We are a 501(c)(3) organization that is solely funded by the generous donations of individuals, foundations and corporations.

Youth Entrepreneurs is a yearlong class taught as a high school elective course by nationally certified entrepreneurship teachers. We provide hands-on experience, working in partnership with area businesses and mentors and culminates in the development and presentation of individual business plans.

Frank Sabatini
Serial Entrepreneur

Thurs., Sept. 29

7:30 - 9am
Ramada Inn

Frank Sabatini is what many people would call a serial entrepreneur. Frank has overseen a variety of investments, served on multiple boards, owned over 100 Pizza Hut franchises, pursued commercial real estate, has been a state representative, a successful attorney and banker and is a well-known Topeka philanthropist. Frank has lived for thirty years on a small ranch outside of Topeka with his wife Judith where he farms, once raised cattle and now raises brome hay.

Frank purchased Capital City Bank of Topeka in 1979 and is currently Chairman Emeritus of Capital City Bank after turning over chairmanship to his son Matthew. He earned his law degree in 1957 from the KU School of Law after completing a Bachelors Degree in Industrial Management from KU as well as competing as a member of their varsity football team.

Frank is a proud mentor for future generations of entrepreneurs and leaders in Topeka.
